JOANI COUNTS AWARDED THIRD IN NATION FOR ESSAY ON PEACE

My Commitment to World Peace

I think peace can mean many different things. Peace to me means: no more hunger in all countries, having harmony with other people, and togetherness all around the world.

I can keep peace in my house by: sharing with my brothers and sisters, by doing things that I'm told, and by being kind and good. If everyone in my family would do these things, then we would have peace in my house.

I can have peace in my school by: helping my friends when they need it, behaving for all my teachers, and by doing what I'm told. If everyone in the school did these things, then we would have peace in our school.

Most of all, I keep peace in my community by: helping the Humane Society, visiting nursing homes because many are lonely, and giving food and money to the poor to help prevent hunger.

A lot of people should try to have peace because... no one would be happy if we didn't, and life would be more pleasant if we did.

Some things that remind me of peace are: classical music, the soaring eagle and the cooing dove, harmony with others, and quietness.

Peace is such an important thing that everyone should include it in their lives.

If we start peace in our homes, we will bring it into our community, and this will spread throughout our world.
